

Dear Parents and Carers,

Due to the recent poor weather, we have decided to move our World Book Day celebrations to Friday 9th March to give you more time to organise costumes and vegetable book characters.

Have a look on the World Book Day website to find lots of fun reading activities you can do at home, especially on a cold day like today.

Follow our Twitter page to find links to further reading activities, including audio books that are completely free to listen to.
